Thank you Jesse Jackson

True, Jesse Jackson did not win the nomination of the Democratic Party; but he did do something far more monumental. Because of his dogged campaign and stoic adherence to a dream of racial equality and social improvement for all the masses, his name was placed in nomination for the President of the United States. That nomination of a Black man for president is a singular milestone in American history because Blacks and all underprivileged Americans now have restrictions.

It is most fitting that Blacks and all underprivileged Americans extend to Reverend Jesse Jackson a sincere THANK YOU, for "He has borne our griefs" and successfully campaigned for a better social atmosphere in America -- all this at a very great risk to himself and the endangerment of his entire family. Perhaps not a current beacon of hope and a reaffirmation of the American Dream: an equal chance to excel and to advance without until some future time will we become fully aware of the great stress and internal suffering endured by Jesse Jackson in the pursuit of his dream of racial equality and social improvement for the masses. We older Blacks and older members of other minorities truly relate to Jackson's struggle, and, today, we find great joy in his triumph. Thank you, Reverend Jesse Jackson.

Sincerley,
